

Abstract:

A technique to stabilize subcarrier generation in a line-locked digital video system, caused by simultaneous locking of the genlock device causing continuous changing of a shared clock signal, by calculating a time shift occurring in an output waveform, converting the 5 time shift into an equivalent phase shift and sending a corresponding phase correction number to a waveform generator block to correct the time shift, and thus stabilize subcarrier generation.

CONFIDENTIAL - THIS DOCUMENT CONTAINS TRADE SECRET INFORMATION AND IS PROTECTED BY LAW